“The business of medicine was the missing piece of my medical education. You can only change the world in which you practice if you have the needed awareness, skills and incentive for change.”

Alan Ladd, MD, MBA’20
Professor of Surgery
Evans Fellow 2018-2020

School of Medicine + Kelley School of Business

2020 Partnership Programs

faculty.medicine.iu.edu/get-involved/programs/kelley-school-of-business-partnership-programs/
As academic health centers grow into larger and more complex systems, physician leaders must be able to confront and execute a wider array of business decisions than ever before. Faculty physicians must be nimble and efficient in response to financial challenges, while also providing patient-centered care and staff leadership.

“I was motivated to participate because I was taking on big administrative roles which in many ways straddle IU Health/IU Health Physicians and IU School of Medicine. I sought to enhance my skill set not only for my own growth, but to be a more effective leader in the system.”

Sara Jo Grethlein, MD, MBA'20
Professor of Clinical Medicine
Evans Fellow 2018-2020

Why participate in a partnership program?

• By combining Kelley business acumen with your clinical expertise, you’ll be uniquely positioned to lead change—not just react to it.

• IU School of Medicine supports training its physicians and covers many of the expenses, so you may focus on advancing your career in physician leadership.

• The curriculum is tailored for leading the IU School of Medicine and IU Health Physician enterprise. However, the skills learned can be applied in any healthcare leadership role. The curriculum and cases are developed in conjunction with IU School of Medicine leaders.

Program Overview

This curriculum is designed to grow and expand along with learning and input from experienced physicians in the classroom. Courses are taught on campus and online through the Kelley School of Business, the only top-ranked school to create an MBA specifically designed for physicians.

BUSINESS OF MEDICINE LEADERSHIP PROGRAM
This program is designed to provide our emerging physician leaders with a professional development opportunity that increases business acumen, leadership skills and expertise.

PHYSICIAN LEADERSHIP IN BUSINESS ACUMEN
This six-month (six credit hours) program is targeted to physicians at associate or full rank in leadership positions (e.g. chairs, residency and fellowship program directors, vice chairs) and promising future leaders.

EVANS FELLOWSHIP IN HEALTHCARE LEADERSHIP
This fellowship provides full-ride tuition for the 21-months Physician MBA Program, along with extensive coaching, networking and mentoring opportunities. This program is targeted to physicians at associate or full rank with administrative experience.

For more info visit:
faculty.medicine.iu.edu/get-involved/programs/kelley-school-of-business-partnership-programs/